THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE WAY.
We asked the young lady across the way if she read the Arizona Republican regularly and she said she didn't have much time to read now but she always looked at the pictures.

Laugh With Us

Pat O'Dowd met Mike Casey coming out of the local police court.
"OI had a most illigant toime on Saturday, O'Dowd—sure 'twas the toime at me loife!"

"Indeed, Casey, and how was that?"
"Why, OI was at the Blue Pig and divil a thing do I remember after about 7:30."
"But if ye can't remember anything, Mike, how do ye know that ye had such an illigant toime?"
"How do OI know?" repeated Casey. "Well, OI've just overheard a dirty policeman telling the magistrate all about it!"

She was a stranger to London and was traveling from Brixton to the Elephant and Castle. She had worried the passengers on either side of her as to whether she was nearing her destination. Finally, getting really anxious, she reached over and deliberately poked the conductor with her umbrella. "Tell me, my man," she said, "Tell me, is this the Elephant and Castle?"

"No, ma'am, it isn't," sharply replied the man, "it's the conductor."

Mrs. Doland always liked to give her husband a little present at Christmas, and as she had given him a watch she wished to buy him a chain. But, being short of cash, she didn't know how to get it for him.

However, she thought of her hair and, calling on a hairdresser, offered to sell it to him. He paid her $25 and, with her head close-cropped, she returned home with the chain.
When Pat came home, he got a fright. She told him her experience and handed him the chain, with the usual good wishes.
"Isn't that too bad, now?" exclaimed Pat. "Why, I've just pawned the watch to buy you a pair of side combs."

A certain British cabinet minister tells the story of a hurried occasion he was "worsted in debate" by an old cabman.

It was in the days of "growlers" and the politician was in a hurry to get somewhere to make a speech, and was rather late. He hailed a four-wheeler and congratulated himself that he would be in time after all. But he made a mistake, for that "growler" crawled as only a cat of that species could crawl.

At last the politician could bear it no longer, so putting his head out of the window, he shouted to the ancient Jehu, "Here, I say, we're not going to a funeral, you know!"
"No, gov'nor," answered the caddy calmly, "and we ain't goin' to no bloom-in' fire neither."

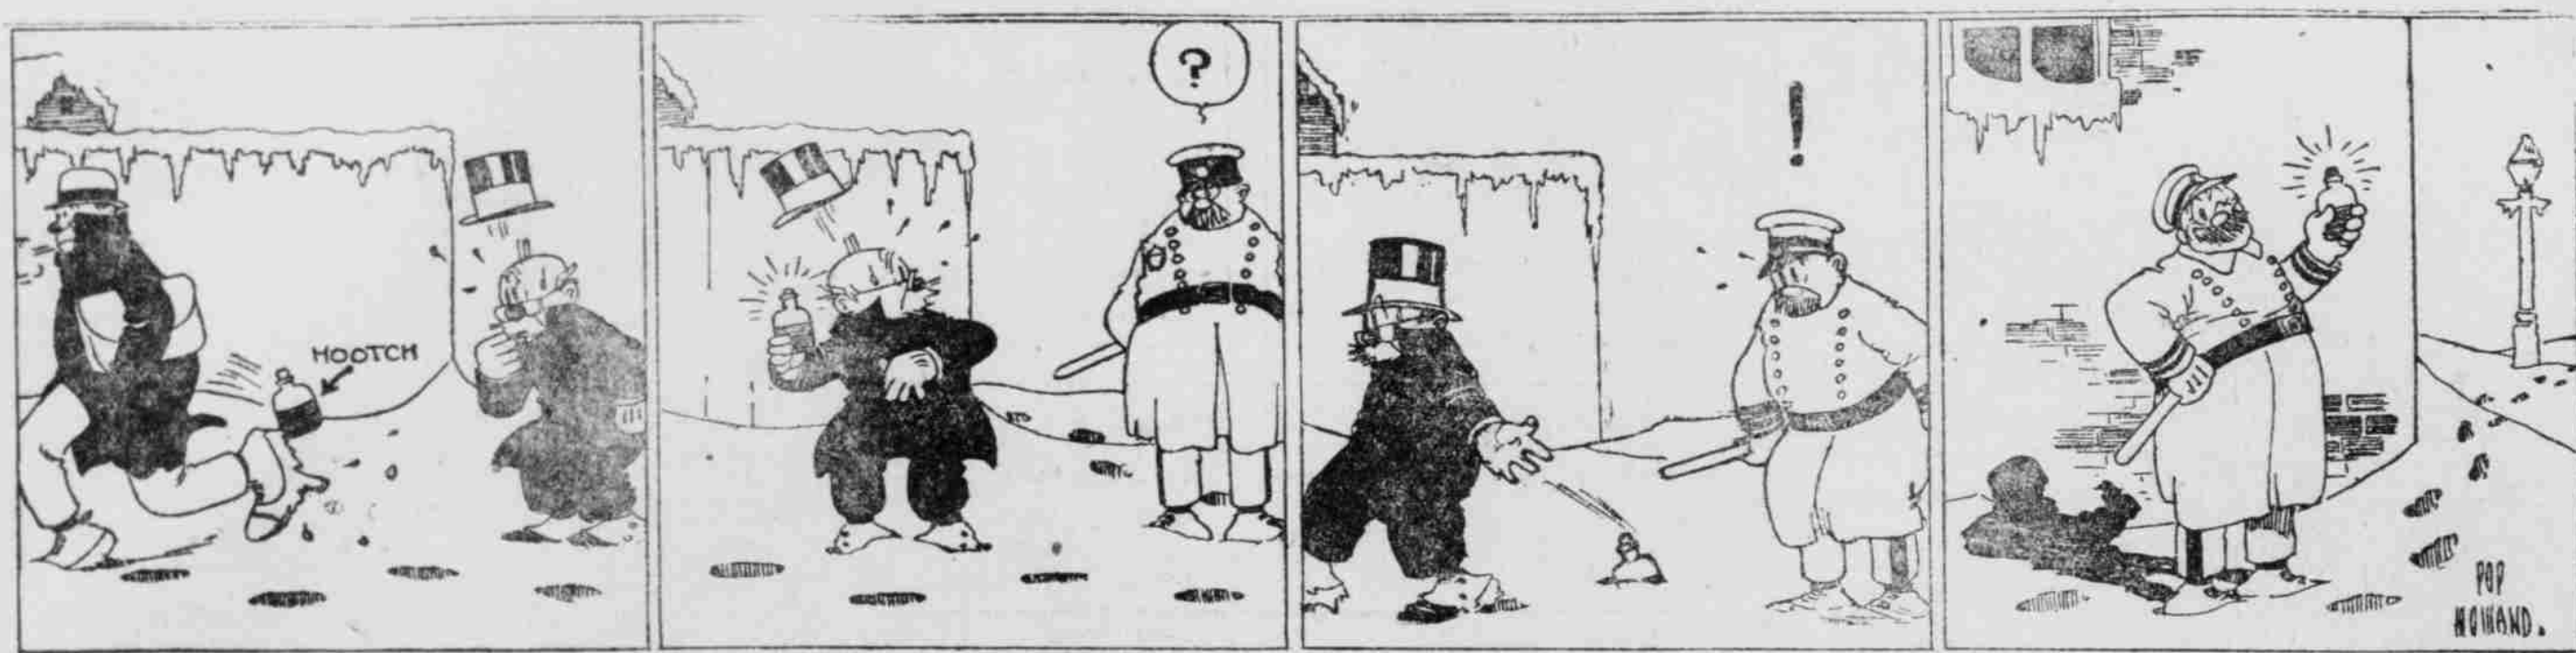

George C. Clancy, professor of rhetoric at Beloit college, has the reputation of indulging in rather sharp repartee in his classroom. One of his pupils, a star at football but not at rhetoric, had spent most of the hour in looking at his watch, yawning and sighing. At the close of the lecture Professor Clancy spoke. "Mr. Smith, why have you looked at your watch every few minutes during the last hour?" Smith got out that he had been looking at his watch to assure himself that it was still running. "I suppose," retorted the professor, "that you have been sitting every few minutes to assure yourself that you are still breathing."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

A Seerss Peeks Into 1921
Mme. Ima Llarre, noted French fried seerss, who is interviewed annually for her prophecies of things to come, is in as good form as ever, and just as talkative. By looking into a glass the good woman is able to see things. That's one advantage in living in France. In America it is impossible to see anything worth while in a glass or, for that matter, a bottle either.

But in consulting the seerss this year no glass was used. We sent out for a pail. Mme. Llarre appeared her throat and began to see things.

"The year 1921 will be largely a year of this and that, pro and con and catch-as-catch-can," she began drawing her hands over her eyes and knocking the empty pail off the arm of the chair. "February will be a short month. The other eleven will remain about the same size."

The seerss hesitated and gazed into the pail. There was nothing in it and she registered disappointment.

"The lives of Mexican presidents, Polish soldiers and New York pedestrians will be in great danger much of the time. I see atrocities in Armenia, along the Mexican border, in New York hotels and on the streets of Manhattan and other large American cities. Considerable money will change hands and the leading musical comedy girls won't be the only people to lose their jewels."

"There will be a change of administration in the United States in March, very early in the month . . . and I look for a radical shake-up in the ranks of small town postmasters all over the nation. Mount Vesuvius and congress will be in a state of eruption a great part of the year and will throw off the heaviest gases in years."

"In America there will be little change. The next president will declare for a larger merchant marine, a suitable tariff on rails, a square deal for labor and capital, butter with restaurant bread and the use of water in the Panama Canal.

"Very early in January there will be much talk of a big drop in the high cost of living. The same talk will continue until very late in December. Flying squadrons will skip hither and thither at a few thousand dollars per minute giving interviews to reporters on cheaper restaurant rates. The restaurant men will raise prices with each interview."

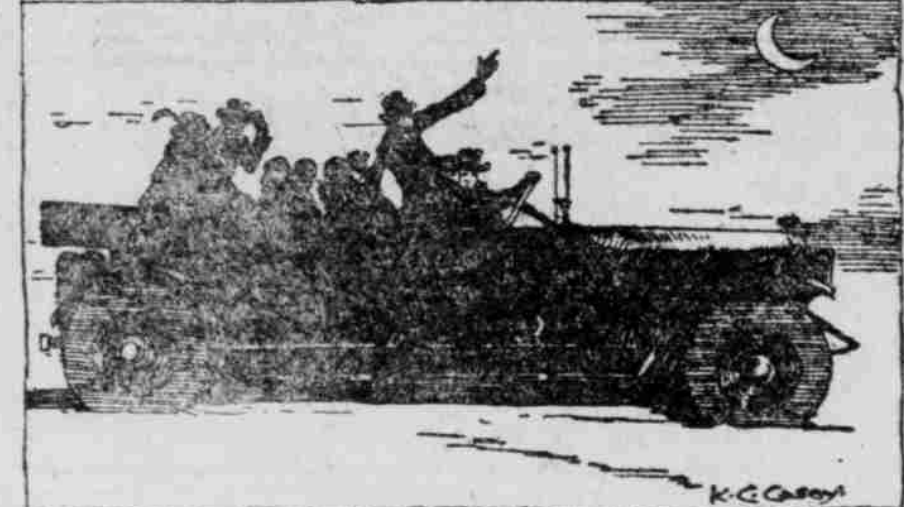

"There will be housing problems in many cities. Landlords will be very unpopular. Investigations into housing conditions will be started in 5000 communities. Each investigation will bring another raise in the rent."

"Regardless of the ice crop, ice prices will be raised about June 15, and no matter what the hens do, eggs will average $1 per dozen. The grocer will buy a new limousine before the year is half over."

"Eddie Foy will become a proud father; Louis Mann will be thrown out of the press circle in all the ball parks and flight clubs; A. H. Woods will retire from the bed room farce and produce plays only in which all the characters sleep in the front yard; Sarah Bernhardt will make a farewell tour, the usual number of Ziegfeld chorus girls will elope, the last surviving member of the Floradora sextette will turn up in Jersey, and about once a month the only living witness of the death of John Wilkes Booth will pass away of lumbago."

Here Mme. Llarre jumped to her feet, quivering with emotion. She gave

"Look! look!" she commanded.
"What is it?" we asked.
